Insights & Inspiration

Giggle, Guffaw, Hoot...Cackle, Chortle, Chuckle... Snicker, Snort, Laugh

When was the last time your belly hurt so bad from hysterically losing it through laughter? My guess is, you likely can't remember. It's been reported that four-year old kids laugh upwards of about 400 times a day. Adults...not so much. We are on record of being some number in the teens, which I quite frankly think is pretty high.

When does the world change from fantastically funny to super serious? I once heard a speaker talk about this point in a very interesting way. click here to read more

2011 Women's Premier Conference

The 2011 Premier Women's Conference offers a platform for women to get inspired, motivated, educated, and equipped to move forward with their professional and personal goals. It will be held on June 15, 2011 at Bridgewood in Neenah, WI.

Key Concept

You can do anything, just not everything. Make a decision as to where you want your life to go - and commit to it. The secret lies in commitment. There's a difference between interest and commitment. When you're interested, you do it when it's convenient. When you're committed, you accept no excuses, only results. You're either committed or not committed. I can't be partly committed no more than I can't be partly pregnant. However, when you create and commit to specific goals you can achieve whatever you set out to do. Goals are that powerful.

When I think about personal goal-setting, no story outranks the one about the Yale University Class of 1953. Researchers surveyed Yale's graduating seniors to determine how many of them had specific, written goals for their future. The answer: 3%. Twenty years later, researchers polled the surviving members of the Class of 1953 -- and found that the 3% with goals had accumulated more personal financial wealth than the other 97% of the class combined!

It's powerful! It's compelling! It's also completely untrue! click here to read on
